Eligibility approval is not permanent. The Issuer may conduct ongoing reviews and may restrict participation if a user's circumstances, applicable laws, sanctions status, or risk profile changes.

- Any additional jurisdiction designated as restricted by the Issuer

The Issuer may update the list of restricted jurisdictions at any time in response to legal, regulatory, sanctions, banking, exchange, compliance, or operational developments.

A jurisdiction’s absence from the list does not guarantee eligibility.

A person must not participate on behalf of a United States person through an offshore company, nominee, trust, wallet, exchange account, or other arrangement.

The Issuer may apply a broader definition where reasonably necessary to comply with applicable law or legal advice.

7. United Kingdom and European Union Restrictions

- Place of incorporation
- Principal place of business
- Beneficial ownership
- Internet-protocol information
- Payment information
- Telephone information

- Appears on an applicable sanctions or asset-freezing list
- Is owned or controlled by a sanctioned person
- Acts on behalf of a sanctioned person
- Is located in or ordinarily resident in a comprehensively sanctioned jurisdiction
- Uses funds or wallets associated with sanctioned activity
- Participates in a transaction prohibited by applicable sanctions

The Issuer may screen participants, beneficial owners, directors, officers, counterparties, wallets, and transactions against applicable sanctions information.

Sanctions restrictions apply even if the relevant country is not otherwise listed as a restricted jurisdiction.

- Device information
- Global-positioning or regional signals, where permitted
- Residential and business addresses
- Identification documents
- Telephone country codes
- Payment-source information
- Bank or exchange account information
- Tax residence

Conflicting information may result in enhanced review, delay, restriction, or rejection.

A person temporarily present in a restricted jurisdiction may be unable to access or participate in an Issuer-operated token program while physically located there.

13. Prohibition on Circumvention

You must not attempt to evade this Policy through:

- A VPN
- A proxy server
- Location-masking software
- A false address
- False identity information
- A nominee or straw purchaser
- A third-party account
- An offshore entity created to conceal a restricted person

- A false declaration of beneficial ownership
- A misleading payment source
- Remote access from another jurisdiction
- Any other concealment or circumvention method

You must not purchase, claim, or receive CZR for the account or benefit of a restricted person.

The use of privacy or security tools for legitimate purposes does not by itself establish wrongdoing. However, the Issuer may require additional verification where a tool prevents reliable location or identity checks.

14. Source of Funds and Wallet Screening

Participants may be required to demonstrate that their funds and digital assets come from lawful sources.

The Issuer may screen wallets and transactions for connections to:

- Sanctioned addresses
- Stolen assets
- Fraud
- Scams
- Ransomware
- Darknet markets
- Terrorist financing
- Money laundering
- Mixing or obfuscation services
- High-risk exchanges or services
- Exploited protocols
- Other unlawful or suspicious activity

The presence of a risk indicator does not necessarily establish misconduct, but it may result in further review.

The Issuer may reject or delay a transaction if the source of funds or wallet activity cannot be satisfactorily explained.

15. Ongoing Monitoring

Eligibility may be reviewed on an ongoing basis.

The Issuer may conduct renewed verification when:

- Information changes
- Documents expire
- A user changes location
- Ownership or control changes
- A sanctions list changes
- A wallet triggers a risk alert

- Unusual activity is identified
- A new program is introduced
- Applicable law changes
- Additional verification is required by a service provider or authority

You must promptly provide updated information when requested.

Failure to complete a review may result in restriction or removal from an Issuer-operated program.

16. Eligibility Decisions

The Issuer may approve, reject, suspend, or revoke eligibility based on:

- Applicable law
- Legal advice
- Sanctions requirements
- Verification results
- Geographic information
- Beneficial ownership
- Source-of-funds concerns
- Wallet-screening results
- Fraud indicators
- False or inconsistent information
- Security concerns
- Operational limitations
- Risk-management requirements

The Issuer is not required to accept every eligible person.

Where legally permitted, the Issuer may decline to provide detailed reasons if doing so could reveal confidential compliance procedures, violate law, compromise an investigation, or facilitate circumvention.

17. Consequences of Ineligibility or False Information

If a person is ineligible or provides false, incomplete, outdated, or misleading information, the Issuer may:

- Reject participation
- Cancel a pending order
- Delay token delivery
- Suspend access to an Issuer-operated program
- Disqualify the person from an airdrop or reward
- Require additional verification
- Terminate a contractual relationship
- Block a payment or refund where legally required
- Report relevant activity to an authority
- Take legal action
- Apply other measures permitted by law or applicable terms

A person may remain responsible for losses, costs, taxes, penalties, or liabilities resulting from false information or attempted circumvention.

18. Payments and Refunds

Accepted CZR purchases are non-refundable except where required by applicable law or where the Issuer rejects an order before final acceptance, as described in the CZR Token Terms.

Any refund remains subject to:

- Sanctions and asset-freezing requirements
- Anti-money-laundering requirements
- Fraud review
- Source-of-funds verification
- Wallet screening
- Court orders
- Regulatory instructions
- Law-enforcement requests
- Other applicable legal restrictions

The Issuer may delay, block, withhold, or refuse a refund if processing it would violate applicable law or a lawful direction from a competent authority.

Refunds will normally be returned only to the original verified payment source.

The Issuer will not send a refund to a different person, wallet, bank account, or exchange account unless the change has been approved following enhanced verification.

19. Changes in Eligibility

You must promptly notify the Issuer if:

- You move to a restricted jurisdiction.
- You become a resident or citizen of a restricted jurisdiction where legally relevant.
- Your company changes its jurisdiction or principal place of business.
- A restricted person acquires ownership or control of your entity.
- You become subject to sanctions.
- Your beneficial ownership changes.
- Your participation becomes unlawful.
- Information previously provided becomes inaccurate.

A change in eligibility may affect access to future sales, airdrops, staking, rewards, claims, or other programs.

The Issuer does not represent that it can prevent ordinary peer-to-peer transfers of CZR on Ethereum. However, ineligible persons may be denied access to Issuer-operated or affiliated services and programs.

20. Secondary-Market Acquisitions

The Issuer may be unable to prevent a person from independently acquiring CZR through a decentralized or third-party secondary-market transaction.

Such acquisition does not:

- Make the person eligible for Issuer-operated programs
- Override geographic restrictions
- Guarantee access to CZR Exchange or CZR Wallet services
- Create a right to rewards, airdrops, staking, or token utility
- Require the Issuer to support or facilitate the person’s activity
- Make an otherwise unlawful transaction lawful

Each person remains responsible for complying with applicable law.

21. Marketing and Communications

CZR marketing must not be intentionally directed to restricted persons or restricted jurisdictions.

The Issuer may use measures including:

- Geographic exclusions
- Advertising restrictions
- Regional website notices
- Blocked signup locations
- KYC controls
- Restricted-country settings
- Social-media targeting limitations
- Partner and affiliate instructions

Affiliates, promoters, contractors, community representatives, and service providers must not market CZR to restricted persons or encourage circumvention.

Publicly accessible online content does not constitute an offer where an offer would be unlawful.

22. Affiliates, Referrers and Third Parties

No affiliate, referrer, promoter, market maker, service provider, or third party may waive or alter this Policy unless expressly authorized in writing by the Issuer.

A person must not rely on a third party's statement that geographic or eligibility restrictions do not apply.

Participants remain responsible for reviewing the official policy published through czrtoken.com.

23. Recordkeeping and Information Sharing

The Issuer may retain eligibility and verification records as required for:

- Legal compliance
- Sanctions compliance

- Fraud prevention
- Dispute resolution
- Tax and accounting requirements
- Regulatory inquiries
- Security investigations
- Enforcement of applicable terms

Information may be shared with authorized:

- Identity-verification providers
- Compliance-screening providers
- Blockchain-analytics providers
- Payment providers
- Exchanges and custodians
- Professional advisers
- Regulators
- Courts
- Law-enforcement authorities
- Other parties where legally required or permitted

Personal information will be processed under the applicable Privacy Policy and legal requirements.

24. Reviews and Appeals

A person who believes an eligibility decision was made using incorrect information may contact:

support@czrtoken.com

The request should include:

- Full legal name
- Registered email address
- Relevant account or application reference
- Explanation of the issue
- Supporting documents

Submitting a request does not guarantee reversal.

The Issuer may refuse to provide information where disclosure is prohibited by law, would reveal confidential compliance controls, or could compromise an investigation.

Sanctions blocks, court orders, and legal restrictions may not be subject to internal reversal.

25. No Guarantee of Approval or Access

Completing verification does not guarantee:

- Approval to purchase CZR
- A token allocation
- Participation in an airdrop
- Access to staking
- Access to rewards
- Access to CZR Exchange
- Access to CZR Wallet
- Access to CZR Launchpad
- Continued eligibility
- Availability in a particular jurisdiction

Programs may impose additional requirements or limitations.
